What's new with the Housing Choice Voucher Program? Read on and find out...

Housing Choice Voucher Program Helps Participant Become a Homeowner!

Camille needed help. Her husband had recently passed away and she was pregnant with her second child. Although she was working full time, her salary was not enough to provide for her growing family and the rent needed for a decent home, in a safe neighborhood, was simply beyond her reach. When she received her invitation for her Housing Choice Voucher (HCV), Camille felt a huge weight lift off of her shoulders.

Her time on the program was not always easy, being a single mother rarely is. At one point, Camille lost her job. This was the time she feels the HCV program was most helpful for her and her family. The full rent support she received from the HACP gave her the time she needed to find a new a job, and the utility allowance check she received each month helped her family stay warm through the winter.

Housing Choice Voucher Program Helps Participant Become a Homeowner!

Camille needed help. Her husband had recently passed away and she was pregnant with her second child. Although she was working full time, her salary was not enough to provide for her growing family and the rent needed for a decent home, in a safe neighborhood, was simply beyond her reach. When she received her invitation for her Housing Choice Voucher (HCV), Camille felt a huge weight lift off of her shoulders.

Her time on the program was not always easy; being a single mother rarely is. At one point, Camille lost her job. This was the time she feels the HCV program was most helpful for her and her family. The full rent support she received from the HACP gave her the time she needed to find a new job, and the utility allowance check she received each month helped her family stay warm through the winter.

These are "HUD Federal Fiscal Year 2016" values updated 04/22/2016

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is a federal organization that funds housing programs like the Housing Choice Voucher/Section 8 Voucher Program.

Public Housing Authorities (PHAs) are agencies that receive HUD funds for housing programs and administer housing programs locally.

⁽¹⁾ Note for all Section 8 properties: The actual monthly payment amount is influenced by a number of factors including the deduction of utility allowances, condition of the property, market comparisons, and any other policies of the local housing authority. The figures above represent the highest monthly dollar amount that HUD may pay through Section 8.

Actual monthly rent must be approved by the housing authority prior to lease-up. Approval is based on federal rules and regulations, applicable rent limits and rent reasonableness. The requested rent must not exceed the rent for comparable, unassisted units on the open market. Save $$$ on wage taxes by living here! Did you know that wage taxes are only 1% in the borough of Wilkinsburg vs 3% that you pay living in Pittsburgh? That may not sound like a big difference but consider this. If your salary is $50,000 you would pay only $500 living in Wilkinsburg, but $1,500 living in Pittsburgh. That's saving $1,000/year just by living here!

Located in a large condo style building, the unit boasts one bedroom, eat-in kitchen, large living room, a large, covered balcony. Thoughtful touches like faux fire places, hardwood floors, and extra closet space make this place feel like home. There's also on-site laundry, and it's cat-friendly! You'll love relaxing on your own private, covered balcony.

Just a 15 minute drive to Oakland and within walking distance to a number of bus lines, travel becomes simple while living on this quiet, comfortable street. Be sure to give us a call to view this charming residence! Not quite what you're looking for? That's okay, check out our website for our other listings!

IV. General Recommendations

IV. General Site Design Recommendations

Based on interviews, a review of comparable sites and analysis, the following recommendations are suggested. These suggestions augment the report that was submitted by Brenden Devilly, last year, whose suggestions were consistent with our findings. Rather than repeat these findings, we have augmented this study to include a number of additional issues.

A. User Segmentation

1. User Profiles

There are four user audiences that are intended to use the site, including prospective and future tenants, prospective and current landlords, prospective and current vendors and staff, each of whom have different needs, motivations, experience/learning curves and demographic profiles and who will follow very different site ‘paths.’ For each segment, it is important to both maintain consistency in the site design and interface, but provide an experience appropriate to each audience. Below is an overview of each audience and issues that need to be addressed:

User	Key Needs/Probs	Key Solutions	Functional Issues	Other

2. Paths: Defining The User ‘s Journey

The central premise of a user-friendly site is the “User Path.” Each user is destined to follow a different “path,” defined by the first actions the user makes and driven by their profile and need. It is the job of the site to make that path clear and seamless. Without markers, the user must search for, rather than follow their path, creating frustration and anxiety, where our goal is to provide satisfaction and resolution. Since the site is based on a tree diagram, it is constructed backwards, from the branches (the secondary pages) to the trunk (home page), the starting point for all journeys.

The chart above defines the destinations or objectives of a user's journey, which all begin at the home page, which needs to provide clear markers or 'signs' to direct the user on their proper path. Like any journey, these markers are characterized in several ways:

- Markers, which delineate the user's current location at every step. These are the portal names, page titles and graphics which define the page they are currently viewing.
- Directional Cues, which provide 'direction' to the next step of the path toward their destination. These include markers and menus of various forms include static navigation menus that appear on every page, "quick links," which generally change to adapt to the current page and destinations and boxes or 'portals' which signal a particular destination rather than menu.
- "Calls to Action," which direct a user to a particular functional destination such as registration, or location of a rental property. Calls to Action (CTAs) are characterized as a action, expressed through a verb such as "Register" or "Find a Home."

B. Dimensions of User Experience and Interaction

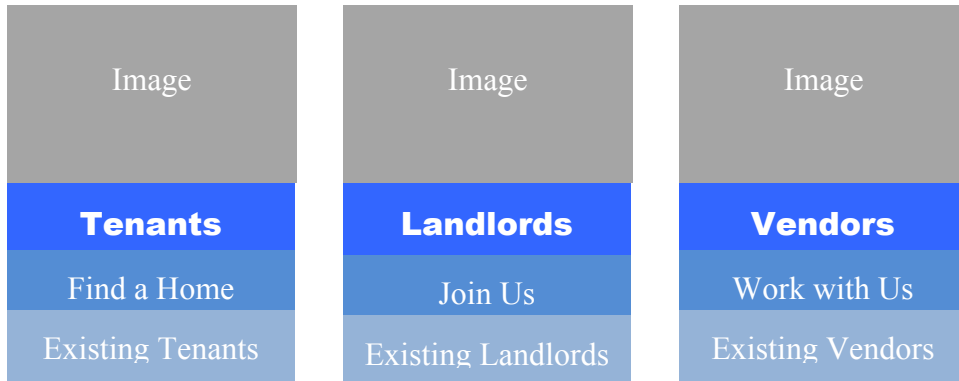

1. Making Actions Happen

The fundamental goal of the site is to facilitate action toward some expected outcome. For tenants, this action might be finding a home. For a landlord, it might be becoming an HACP landlord, listing a property or becoming involved with a new program. For a vendor, it might be learning how to work with HACP or submitting a proposal. All paths lead to actions and therefore, site content needs to be informative or directive as it is important to leading users to the desired action. User interaction is the mechanism by which users move from learning to acting on their information.

2. User Interaction: Home Page

Since the home page is their starting point, it is there that markers, cues and CTA's are most important. Apart from these directional cues, it's also important to give the user a sense of their place to provide an overview of the site. To accomplish this, it's important to incorporate several elements in the home page, which can be echoed on the secondary pages:

- Vertical Scrolling, which allows users to 'scan' down the page to get sense of the site's entirety. This vertical scroll should be 2-4 times the width of the page at the 'fold,' the bottom of the opening screen, and should progress from general to specific information. The key markers to direct the user to their path should be on the opening or topmost screen and include the portals which direct them to the area of site most relevant to their need.
- Portals are boxes that define categories of users or functionality. In the case of the HACP, these portals should include at least Find a Home and Landlords. On the current site, access to these paths requires accessing the dropdown "Quick Links" menu. If a "QuickLinks" is used, it should show a number of items without having to resort to a dropdown. But far better, is the use of portals where the path is clear and one click will suffice. Examples of portals are shown below.

- Images, either photographs (preferred) or graphic symbols which add meaning to the portal or otherwise provide context to the page content.

3. User Interaction: Secondary Pages

Secondary pages are on the path of a user's journey and become more specific to their objective or needed functionality and closer to an action. The shorter the path to their destination, the better the user experience. Second level pages provide greater specificity, but can include all the elements previously mentioned including markers, cues and CTA's, as well as vertical scrolling, portals and images.

The key difference between the home page and the secondary pages is the specificity of the information, actions and the strategy for effecting action. For tenants looking for a home, the critical elements in deciding to pursue a housing option include the rent, location, specifications and condition. To elicit action, those elements must be clearly understood, so that listings should include them, especially a photograph. One of the important changes in the site needs to be the addition of photography to the listings, much like those listings in for-profit real estate companies and Angies List.

4. Elements of User Interaction: Video

One of the easiest ways to get users to favorably interact with the site is through video. It requires no clicking and can inform, create connection and demonstrate processes. In addition, it's a superb method for showcasing testimonials, where short segments include representatives of the segment profile relating their own positive experience. This is especially important for landlords, because one of the easiest ways to create credibility and reduce the resistance to involvement with public housing is the confirmation of other landlords of the benefits of working with HACP.

In addition, micro videos (short but connected video segments) can be used to instruct prospective tenants and landlords to navigate forms, demonstrate processes and showcase testimonials.

C. Design Elements

The design elements create a consistent “look and feel” of the site that fosters better attention to the destination and ultimate action and provides a sense of confidence in the relationship between the user and HACP. This might be the most apparent drawback of the current site and the easiest to remedy. There are a variety of well designed themes available on WordPress, Joomla, Drupal with integrated CMS that already incorporate excellent design principles. When choosing a platform and theme, the key design elements that should be incorporated in the new website include:

1. A Grid System

There is currently no consistent grid to the site, which creates both a sense of inconsistency and user distraction. All of the top comparable sites (NYC, Chicago, etc.) incorporate consistent grid architecture that guides the placement of content, color scheme, font usage and image size and proportion. A 4-column grid for desktop usage (2-column for phone) is suggested in the wireframe below, providing a flexible but consistent organization for all content.

2. Color Palette

A color palette is the predetermination of the hues and shades of color used for various sections and elements of the site. Color can be used to differentiate user groups, functional sections and add consistency to the site from page to page.

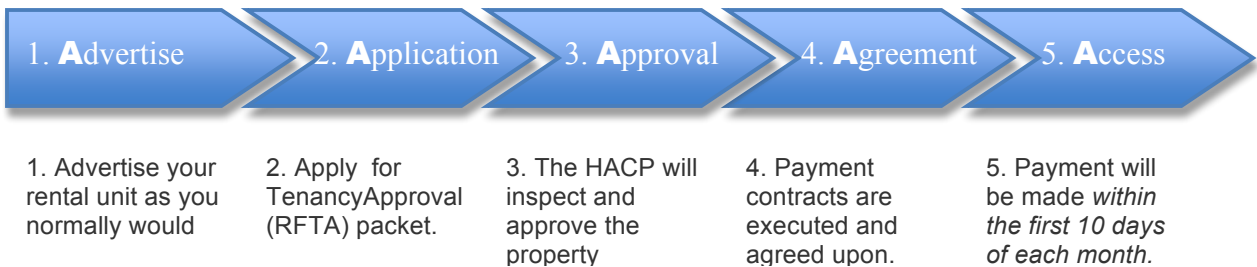

3. Photographs

Photographs and diagrams serve an important purpose in conveying information and meaning toward action. The principal forms of images include:

- Contextual Images which appear at the top of the site in the form of ‘sliders,’ a series of photos representing each audience, that provide a context for the site and an aspirational position for HACP. These images should either suggest a story (a family is proud to moving into a beautiful residence) or provide a direct or metaphoric message (signing a lease) favorably projecting the user into an action.
- Informative Images, which convey important information necessary for taking action, which certainly includes images of the exterior and interior of a residence. Other forms of informative images are records of events, head shots of key personnel, etc. But the most critical use of photography is the representation of properties. There does not seem to be a photo download function on the landlord listing form. This is one of the most important functionalities to be valuable to both landlords and prospective residents. The better the properties are represented, the more likely they will be found and rented and the greater value HACP will provide to both tenants and landlords.

4. Diagrams

An important aspect of getting users to take action is being clear about what actions they need to take. For example, the current site describes a process for landlords to use the voucher program, defined in a 5-Step process. Alternative way of describing this service is in the form of a linked process chart that clearly shows the 5 stages and allows the user to click on any one of them to access more information. In addition, this process might be branded. For example, the “Leasing Your Property to a Voucher Holder” might be called the “5A” process for Voucher Leasing, as follows:

5. Fonts

There are a variety of font styles currently used on the HACP site and a good deal of inconsistency in the use of italic, bold, serif and sans serif. Using a single font in two weights will keep things simpler and more consistent. Limit color choices.

D. Functional Issues

There are a number of functional issues that need to be augmented including:

1. Responsive Design

Almost 50% of residents access the site through mobile devices and will be increasing over the next few years. Because of the text heavy content, and lack of boxed portals, navigating the current HACP site on phones requires considerable scrolling through the entire text of the site pages. Links are small and type is hard to read.

The mobile version of the site need to incorporate boxed portals and navigational buttons to a much greater degree to allow users to more easily access content.

In addition, the user tests showed that landlord video did not load properly for phone viewing.

2. Platform and CMS

To make it easier for staff to incorporate advanced functionality such as forms, videos and theme design, it would be advisable to look at some of the popular site design platforms such as WordPress, Joomla and Drupal. In particular, WordPress provides a large range of workable themes and plug-ins with functionality for forms, photo downloads and other features for staff and landlords to add content, video and photos.

E. Summary of Recommendations

A. User Segmentation

- User Path. Focus on the User Path based on need and destination
- Portals. Increased focus on portals, especially the landlord portal
- Markers. Provide greater attention to markers (portal names, page titles and graphic that define where a user is on the site), directional cues (providing ‘direction’ toward the destination...especially portals) and CTA’s to prompt a destinational action.

B. User Experience and Interaction

- Actions. Focus on prompting action through CTA prompts using verbs such as Register Here, Find a Home, etc.
- Vertical Scrolling. Use vertical scrolling, exposing users to a broader range of site real estate without clicks.
- Boxed Navigational Portals, where portals offer choices for destinations by user segment such as New or Existing tenants (or landlords)
- Photos to accompany all listings.
- Videos, including instructional micro videos for demonstrating process and showcasing testimonials.

C. Design Elements

- Platform. Use a standard platform that has designed themes.
- Grid. Employ a grid to create page layout consistency
- Color Palette. Choose a set of color hues and shades as standards for all pages
- Photographs. Employ considerably more use of both contextual and informative photography at head of each page and especially for listings.
- Diagrams. Employ process diagrams to represent processes
- Fonts. Choose one font (Futura?) in two sizes and weights for all site content

D. Functional Issues

- Responsive Design. Incorporate boxes and vertical scrolling suitable for phones
- Platform and CMS. Employ a standard platform and plugins to provide well designed and seamless functionality.

This link is broken. The target anchor does not exist or is commented out. The anchor after the # symbol points to a non-existent NAME or ID on the target page. If the anchor link targets the same page nothing will happen when it's clicked. If the anchor link targets another page, then the top of the target page will be displayed instead of the intended location. In most cases the destination anchor has been removed accidentally and should be reinstated. http://www.hacp.org/housing-options/hacp-communities/addison-terrace	Broken Link

Add text to the link, or ALT text if the link contains an image. If there is no link text or the ALT text is blank, screen readers have nothing to read, so read out the URL instead.

The TITLE attribute on the A element doesn't work in:

Identify row and column headers in data tables using TH elements, and mark layout tables with role='presentation'. Data tables allow screen reader users to understand column and row relationships. Layout tables read cells as a series of unrelated paragraphs with no tabular structure. Without TH or ROLE, screen readers apply heuristics to decide whether a table is a layout table or data table. These heuristics vary greatly between screen readers, and are affected by browser being used, window size, and font size (so the outcome is very unpredictable without TH or ROLE). If a data table has headers marked up using TD, then change these to TH. If a data table has no headers, add TH elements describing each row and/or column. If the table is only used for layout add role='presentation' to the TABLE element.

Impact on users:

- JAWS Reading: Treats tables without TH and ROLE as layout tables if the table contains cells above or below certain pixel sizes. This measurement is affected by browser window size, browser font size, and the browser used.
- NVDA Reading: Applies a 'layout table' heuristic to tables without TH and ROLE which varies depending on the browser used and on the window size in some circumstances.
- VoiceOver Safari OSX 10.9 Reading: Uses a sophisticated heuristic on tables without TH and ROLE, which is similar (but not identical) to the heuristic used by NVDA with Firefox.

Form field labels should be unique on a page, or enclosed in a FIELDSET with a LEGEND that makes the label unique.

When a form contains items with the same label, screen reader users find it difficult to tell them apart. Adding a fieldset with a legend differentiates the controls, because the legend text is announced along with the label text. For example:

<legend> Gift wrapped: </legend> <label> Yes </label>
<label> No </label>
<legend> Express delivery: </legend> <label> Yes </label>
<label> No </label>

Headings should not be empty. WCAG 2.0 AA G130

Add text to the heading, or ALT text if the heading contains an image. Screen readers read out page headings, allowing users to quickly skip to a section, but some older screen readers do not ignore empty headings.

Impact on users:

- SaToGo 3.4.96.0 IE11 Windows 7 Heading: Reads following paragraph as heading.

If you set any of the colors on the BODY or A elements you must set all of them. WCAG 2.0 AA F24

In HTML the color attributes are TEXT, BGCOLOR, LINK, ALINK and VLINK. In CSS the attributes are COLOR and BACKGROUND-COLOR. Some users have browser defaults set to white text on a black background, so setting one color without setting the others can result in black text on a black background. High contrast mode on Windows turns off background images so you must set a background-color in addition to a background-image.

This CSS style makes it difficult or impossible to see the dotted link focus outline. WCAG 2.0 AA F78

Change the style to avoid obscuring the focus outline around A elements, which is used when tabbing through links.

Use relative rather than absolute units in CSS property values. WCAG 2.0 AA 1.4.4

Absolute units are CM, MM, IN, PC and PT. When used with fonts PX is also considered an absolute unit, because it isn't relative to the user's preferred font size. Low-vision users, and a lot of people over 50, increase the browser default font size to make text easier to read. Absolute units ignore this user choice. Relative units like EM and percentages "stretch" according to the screen size and/or user's preferred font size, and work on a large range of devices.

Avoid specifying a new window as the target of a link with target="_blank". WCAG 2.0 AAA F22

Displaying new windows without warning can be very confusing to non-sighted and mobile users. Some screen readers and mobile devices give very little indication a new tab or window has opened. If you cannot avoid displaying a new window, insert a warning into the link text like the following: "opens in a new window".

Omitting IMG WIDTH or HEIGHT attributes means page text jumps about as images load.

Usability.gov 14:3

This makes the page very hard to read while it's loading, and the user may click on the wrong link if it moves as it's being clicked. Add width and height attributes to the img tag matching the image dimensions. Authoring tools like Dreamweaver can automate this process.

Use text links rather than image links. In general, text links are more easily recognized as clickable.	Usability.gov 10:6
Text links usually download faster, are preferred by users, and should change colors after being selected. It is usually easier to convey a link's destination in text, rather than with the use of an image. Users often find it hard to tell which images are clickable without moving the cursor over them ('minesweeping'). Another benefit to using text links is that users with text-only and deactivated graphical browsers can see the navigation options.

Radio buttons are easier to use than drop-downs when there are 6 choices or fewer.	Usability.gov 13:9
One usability study showed radio buttons give reliably better performance than drop-down lists for mutually exclusive selections. If screen space allows use radio buttons instead of lists/dropdowns with fewer than 7 items.

Use a familiar font (Times, Georgia, Arial, Helvetica or Verdana) to achieve the best possible reading speed. Research shows no reliable differences in reading speed or user preferences for twelve point Times New Roman or Georgia (serif fonts), or Arial, Helvetica, or Verdana (sans serif fonts). VIII. Notes from Interviews

VIII. Notes From Interviews

1. Debbie N

Vendors have some problems signing up
Introduce “I separate section for Vendor” like “Landlord
Not getting confirmation messages to activate a count last 45 days

Business opportunities. Vendor login>search for procurements

Need differentiation between IFB and RFPs or (RFQ)
Instead of “3 Quote Bid” ...under 18.5K..
IFB over the threshold... Always comes up as IFB before the 3 quote bid

Most important:

1. Tenants..
 - paying rent..not easy
 - Make more like county housing authority...can enroll for pay online via “pay or express” or mail in
 - transferring within or to another county...no so obvious
 - More clarity about “applying for housing.”
2. landlords
 - New referral
 - How to become one...landlord resources
 - Need clear signup form
 - Won't allow login for both vendor and landlord (one or another), ie, if registered as vendor, can't register as a landlord
3. Vendors
 - Having problems signing up as vendor
 - Choose “I am a vendor” option
 - Not getting confirmation messages to act
 - Make it easier to search for procurements
 - Currently, all bids come up as IFB before the 3 quote bid
 - Easier sign up
 - Select what alerts you want to get information on (such as new RFPs)
 - Categorize by “type of vendor” (architects, pest control, contractor, etc)
 - Vendors don't realize registration is by person, not company; need a disclaimer
 - Can't accept electronic bids

2. Brett/Landlord Outreach Coordinator

1. Landlord Issues

Most landlords aren't technologically literate

Need to make it easier to register

- Accessing their part of site
- Simple tutorial to register (1-2-3)
- Make documents more accessible on the site
 - Rent increase documentation
 - Model lease agreement
 - Packet of information...where a property has Section 8 Tenants
- Don't have to be preapproved as a section 8 landlord. Need unit information through a checkbox
- Approved tax infation
- Tenant sees landlord from a search
- Tenant-landlord contact information; need printout

2. Social Media

- Twitter feed on all pages
- Social media component on Landlord section
- Need more for landlords, such as relocation projects

3. Other issues

- Negative stigma of Section 8
- Positioning as "Good Business"
- Testimonials
- Timely rent payments
- Overall support

3. Larry

1. Tenant Issues

- Application process
- Marketing of properties with links
- Google earth and walkthroughs (like real estate sites)
- Facebook to promote socializeing
- Problem: technological literacy; need o make accessible by smart pone; mobile friendly

2. Landlords

- Need to work ast being a Gateway to general services/more invoved with portals
- Provide services to all landlords, not just section 8..so site is visible for all icnludig subsidized clients.

Recommendations

- Video and or 4-5 steps or micro video highlighting registration process which is not currently user friendly
- Leverage a larger "Central" site where landlords can register units without having to recreate what someone else has done, possibly the County Housing Authority
- Deal with underlying infrastructure withouth using a 'custom' platform. Open source content manager such as Wsordpress, Droople, Joomla
- Help function. If you need help...setting up a chat room box, "Can I help you?"
- Instructions on how to get a listing on and off
- Specific Landlord portal
- Process charts shoing various steps
- Video or micro videos showing steps'Easy to access review of available properties
- Photos to accompany listings
- "Apply Now" button for tenants to direct application to landlords w/form

4. Adria and Brian: Tenants

Observations

- Site hard to navigate
- Need pictures of properties
- Used Craigslist to find properties
- Looked at site; couldn't find appropriate properties
- Need to take leased properties off site
- Get landlords approved; just because the properties are up on site doesn't mean they're approved
- Show photos of interior rooms
- Mobile site looks better but 'search for..'find a listing' doesn't work
- Propert search needs to be much more user friendly

Robinelle: Tenant

- Did not use website to find residence
- Asked around neighborhood
- Current site;' pleasant'
